2025 Annual Shelter Data Report

Franklin Went Home Again!

Franklin was with us for a whole 482 days before finding his new loving family. We loved spending time with Franklin for all 482 of those days and learned so much about him during that time. We learned that he loved sun-bathing, had a big personality, and hated doing things he didn't want to do yet (don't we all?). We also learned that he loved to learn! He knew so many tricks already and was always ready to learn a new one with us. His preferred enrichment was to get out of his kennel, onto a bed, and to suck on a toy.

We loved every day spent with Franklin, but we loved seeing him go home even more! We've even already received an update from Franklin's new dad who says that they are settling in well together and enjoying each other's company each day. We hope Franklin's story inspires you to check out the pet that has been at the shelter for way too long next time you are looking to adopt. Who knows - you just may find your next best friend!

Consider Adopting a Bonded Pair!

Bonded Pairs are pets that came to HSSW together and would do best going home together too. We know that it might be scary to adopt two pets at once, but we have some pretty good reasons to do it!

Bonded Pairs go home with someone they already know, which can help them adjust to their new home easier. Think about going somewhere new for the first time, isn't it easier to do with a lifelong friend with you? Also, how often do folks adopt a pet and then a few years later think about getting that pet a friend? Bonded Pairs take this thought away as they already have their friend!

Bonded Pairs have a built-in companion and playmate which can help with loneliness and also means they can entertain each other when you're feeling a little too exhausted for rowdy play time at night. Speaking of entertainment, adopting a Bonded Pair means that you're getting double the entertainment (and double the love)! Lastly, adopting a Bonded Pair means that you are freeing up double the space in the shelter, allowing us to help double the amount of pets.

Currently at HSSW, we have two Bonded Pairs of dogs and one Bonded Pair of cats. To learn more about Ollie & Archer, Bright Eyes & Charcoal, or Sundae & Hanabi, visit as at <https://www.petsgohome.org/adopt/>, give us a call at 608-752-5622, send us an email at adoption@petsgohome.org, or stop by during our regular adoption hours!
